HAWKING

The story of the early years of world-renowned theoretical physicist Stephen Hawking is brought to the screen for the first time in a collaboration between BBC Science and BBC Drama.

Written by Peter Moffat (North Sea, Cambridge Spies), Hawking stars Benedict Cumberbatch as the young Stephen Hawking who, as a bright and ambitious PhD student at Cambridge University, is diagnosed with the debilitating motor neurone disease and given two years to live. Against the odds, he goes on to achieve worldwide acclaim and success, in particular with his astounding book, A Brief History of Time.

Lisa Dillon (The Merchant of Venice, Big Yellow Dog) plays Hawking's first wife, Jane Wilde, who meets the young cosmologist at a party in 1963 and is instantly intrigued by Stephen's talk of stars and the universe. Michael Brandon (Jersey Boys in the highly successful National Theatre production of Jersey Boys - The Opera, Deceit and Madness) plays Arno Penzias, an American Nobel prize-winning scientist whose work provided physical evidence to back up Hawking's Big Bang theory; John Sessions (The Little Prince, John Deed) plays Dennis Sciama, Hawking's academic supervisor and mentor at Cambridge.
